STEP 3 Sound Flow — Listen and Read out

- 1. 英文を聞いて、音の流れの中で起こる音の強弱、くっつく音、消える音を確認しましょう。
- 2. 赤字の箇所を強く読むことを意識して、音声に続いて英文を2回読みましょう。
- 1 oI was born in New York City and (1) grew up in an apartment building there. OMy family, with Irish roots, lived on the top floor. People of German, Italian, and Puerto Rican backgrounds lived on different floors. When I climbed the stairs to our apartment, I often ran into people on the other floors. They said "Hi" to me and sometimes offered me tea and sweets. • I liked my neighbors and had nice chats with them. • I gradually got interested in foreign cultures.
- 2 OEach apartment had an emergency exit. When I felt sad, I went through it and (2) sat on the emergency stairs for a while. • For me, the exit was like the hatch of a submarine. • Outside, I often felt like I was in another world, a world of imagination.
- 3 OWhen I was 14, I (3) lived in France with my family. 2 During our stay there, one of my French neighbors, a nice old lady, often made French snacks for me. One day, she served me a dish made with raw onions. 9"Oh, no!" I thought. 9I hated uncooked onions; my family, like some other Irish families, seldom ate such onions. However, when I told her so, she said, "Really? Obviously, you've never eaten a delicious uncooked onion dish." • In fact, the onion snack was very delicious!
- 4 The French lady taught me a lesson: Don't say you dislike something (4) when you haven't even tried it. ②Now I always say to myself, "Never refuse to try something new. ③You may like it. ④You'll never know (5) till you give it a try."

★問題2スクリプト/

Japanese people started wearing kimono during the Heian Period. Originally, kimono means a "thing to wear," but in recent years, it is used to describe a type of Japanese traditional dress. Today, Japanese people wear kimono only at special occasions such as weddings, funerals, and tea ceremonies.
